

Adam Grisier

Adam Grisier is a mortuary college student attending the Cincinnati College of Mortuary Science. Adam graduated from Archbold High School in Archbold, Ohio in 2016, and graduated with a pre-mortuary degree from Northwest State Community College in 2018. Adam is the class president of the Cincinnati College of Mortuary Science Fall Class of 2019, and also is a co-founder of “Pancakes with a Purpose,” a fundraiser started by Adam and his classmate, Travis Riddle, that flips pancakes for a free will donation to help fellow classmates pay for business attire they may not be able to afford. Adam enjoys music, golfing, and any event that lets him socialize with people. After graduating with his Bachelors in Mortuary Science from Cincinnati, he will return to the Archbold area and work next to his family as a sixth generation funeral director, furthering the care and respect that funeral directors administer.
