

Professional Development sessions at the ABFSE Annual Conference.

Wednesday, April 6, 2022 3-4:30 PM

Funeral recordkeeping and tips for incorporating into the teaching curriculum. Don Strickland from Passare will share suggestions for dealing with the recordkeeping requirements and regulatory presence felt by funeral homes. Learn how case management processes can free more time for the FD to spend with families. Educators can incorporate these ideas for use in the classroom.

Helping services happen and sooner...

The look and feel of funerals has been changing and the pandemic caused funeral directors to look for new ways to meet family needs. TribuCast has been helping funeral directors help families since 2016. Participating in the more-than 11,000 services and working with 1.5 million family members has provided a wealth of knowledge and perspective. TribuCast is anxious to share what they've learned with funeral service educators. TribuCast will also livestream the ABFSE Annual Meeting on Friday.

These combined sessions are approved for 1.0 CEU by APFSP.

Wednesday, April 6, 2022 6-7:30 PM

Join your colleagues for Conversations on Current Issues.

ABFSE President Jolena Grande will serve as moderator as ABFSE colleagues share conversation about issues and topics impacting funeral service and funeral service education today. Bring your questions and prepare to participate.

Session approved for 1.0 CEU by APFSP

Thursday, April 7, 2022

Pierce Chemical Co. and Dallas Institute will serve as hosts for the afternoon. See how embalming chemicals are manufactured and visit Dallas Institute where we will split into groups to share some teaching best practices. On the agenda will be the subject areas for this summer curriculum review – Merchandising, Business Law and Ethics. If there is sufficient interest we can also convene a group to talk about exit testing strategies.

Session approved for 1.0 CEU by APFSP

For those enrolled in the Academy of Funeral Service Practice, CE credit is also available for other ABFSE committee meetings and the Self Study Workshop.