

Evie Brisley

Evie is a future funeral director based in New York City. She is currently studying at AAMI and is thrilled to accept a scholarship from the ABFSE.

Evie is particularly curious about how memory and remembrance are facilitated through funeral service and the sociological underpinning of this process. In addition to mortuary science, Evie has also studied sociology with an emphasis in American culture and the phenomenon of the American road trip.

She extends her gratitude to the ABFSE for their support."