

Alyssa Ford

I grew up in a small town just south of Mackinaw City, Michigan and was raised in a home filled with people who would be first on scene to any major event to help people of their community. It was an easy decision when it came to following in their lead and helping the people in this industry. I have worked for Zaagman Memorial Chapel in Grand Rapids, Michigan since September of 2021 and will be pursuing my career as a licensed Funeral Director here after Mortuary School at Worsham College of Mortuary Science.

I'm very thankful for this opportunity granted to me and the scholarship committees who are here supporting me along the way.
